Lead people, manage stuff!

Business Leaders – Maximize Your Time

Receive comprehensive Executive Summaries of books selected especially for business leaders and those aspiring to leadership positions. Each summary is targeted at leading-edge business concepts, technologies, organizational effectiveness, and geo-political trends that affect your bottom line.

With over 7,000 business books published each year in the U.S. alone, and with the publishers touting each as “must read,” it makes sense for time-challenged business people to look for unbiased, professional assistance — in order to lead!

After reading our Executive Summary (a ten minute read) you can make an informed decision whether to buy the book for further study, or save your precious time for the next important book.

Our Executive Summaries

Each book we summarize is selected based on its own merits, its: relevance to today’s business leaders, importance of ideas, originality of thought, and clarity of concept.

Our writers place each book in context: leadership, marketing, sales, finance and stakeholders. This is targeted learning at its best!

Our Subscription Service

Every two weeks we e-mail you a notice that your new Executive Summary of the most important business book we see in the bookstores is ready for you to download. Your subscription will include 26 Executive Summaries and access to our archives, where you will find previously published executive summaries — must reads for all leaders, today and tomorrow.

Our Goal

Our Executive Summaries are targeted toward the top three tiers of business leaders and managers worldwide — and those aspiring to leadership positions.

We only select books most likely to generate real interest and enthusiasm among our subscribers. Only the most relevant books are summarized.
